Microform

- Microform is a materials format - most often found on paper or film - that offers a micro-reproduction of a larger media; microfilm and microfiche are types of microform.
- Microfilm - Film on reels.
- Microfiche - Film on flat sheets.

Why Would I Want To Use Microform?

- You don’t have access to the material in digital form.
- You don’t have access to the original (usually physical) material.
- You are a masochist looking for a bad time!

Loading Instructions

- Too many steps for paper, but have a look at the HI 330 course page (http://goo.gl/0vmqZm) for directions.
- You can also locate your course page on the “Course Pages” tab of the Schewe Library website.